

COMMITTEE AT MADISON URGES CLAIMS OF CITY AS LOCATION FOR FAIR

LEAVES MATTER OF INVITING ENTIRE LEGISLATURE TO JANESVILLE IN HANDS OF ROCK COUNTY
DELEGATION.

SUPPORT FROM BELOIT

Beloit Men Promise Will Have Representation Present When Janesville Claims Are Again Presented to Committee.

Beloit men are anxious to secure the state fair should it be removed from Milwaukee, took a decided rise today. The committee of the Commercial and Twenty Five Thousand clubs composed of Mayor James A. Fathers, E. Lane, Edward Amorpoli, M. P. Richardson and F. P. Croak, spent the day in the interests of the city and met encouragement on every hand.

Belmont at Noon.
Senator L. E. Cunningham of Beloit, Assemblyman Alexander Paul of Belmont, Rock county's delegation in the legislature, were entertained by the committee at dinner at the Park hotel. All three men expressed themselves as being in favor of Janesville and will work in every way possible to secure the prize for the Bower city.

After deliberation it was decided to leave the matter of asking the entire legislature to visit this city with the three legislators will use their own discretion and present the invitation whenever a favorable opportunity arises.

Attorneys M. J. Jeffris, O. A. Oestreich and William R. Reger Jr., of this city, and D. B. Worthington, postmaster at Beloit were present at the dinner.

Support From Beloit.
Senator Cunningham and Mr. Worthington stated to the local committee that Janesville could depend on substantial support from Beloit in the matter of securing the Bower city as a site for the fair. They assured the Janesville men that they would have a delegation present at the next hearing before the joint legislative committee and that Janesville's advantages will again be presented.

The time for the committee's report to be made to the legislature has been extended ten days from the 23rd of May which will bring the time for reporting into June. Janesville is certain to be given another hearing from the committee, it was learned.

At Oshkosh Tomorrow.
The committee is scheduled to visit Oshkosh and Fond du Lac tomorrow and next week will visit Milwaukee. This will virtually complete the committee's visitation program although an attempt will be made to again bring them to Janesville. It was uncertain whether the second hearing which this city will be given will be here or at Madison.

The members of the local committee were taken in charge by the Rock county legislators this afternoon and were introduced to many senators and assemblymen. There was a surprise number of lawmakers who were out and out Janesville supporters and prospects looked very bright indeed.

Call on McGovern.
The committee called at the executive mansion this morning to pay respects to Governor McGovern but he was not at home. It is hoped that his aid may be enlisted in favor of Janesville.

The powers of the joint legislative committee include the decision of whether the fair shall be removed from Milwaukee, to what city it shall be removed if a change is deemed advisable and the amount of money which shall be appropriated to bring about the removal.

Lord Curzon has been active in the negotiations, but not through Courts Banks as previously reported.

Deny Government Victory.
New York, May 15.—Robert Penner, confidential agent here of the rebellious constitutionalists in Sonora, Mexico, received today a private message from an agent at Douglas, Arizona, stating that the rebels or a government victory in Sonora as contained in dispatches from Mexico City last night. These dispatches place the rebel loss at 400 after a defeat at the hands of Gen. Medina Barron. Today's private message places the federal loss at 300, and adds that the government troops died with shame, leaving among the dead three colonels, two lieutenants and four majors.

Favor Intervention.
St. Louis, Mo., May 15.—"Armed intervention by the United States is the only thing in my judgment that will restore peace in Mexico," said Missionary R. P. Mahon, of Morelia, Mexico, in an address before the Southern Baptist convention today. "I have been unable to return to my work in Mexico for the last two months on account of revolution and anarchy. The publication of the news of the country is in absolute chaos and the home of getting together is led by any of its people. Vice, ignorance, gambling and extreme poverty hold the majority of the people in Mexico down."

M'GOVERN COUNSEL SUBMIT ARGUMENTS TO SUPREME COURT

Madison, Wis., May 15.—Reargument of the Ebern-McGovern case in the supreme court yesterday was the voted almost entirely to discussion by the attorneys of the points involved in the questions propounded by the court when it called for a rehearing on the case. The attorneys were: For Mr. Ebern, M. B. Olbrich and J. A. Aylward; and for the respondents, H. L. Butler and A. C. Umbreit, who presented the original argument.

Following is a resume of the arguments for the respondents by H. L. Butler and A. C. Umbreit.

Question I.
Does section 970 of the statutes require that the process of law as guaranteed by the constitution be pursued in removing an officer?

There is no property right in an office. The exercise of removal is not a judicial function, but is administrative or executive. Hence neither the due process clause of the XIV amendment nor any provision of the state constitution that might effect is impaired by any provision of the state legislature may see fit to make as regards removal from office. This is but an application of the self-appointing officer gets only what he deserves.

The members of the local committee were taken in charge by the Rock county legislators this afternoon and were introduced to many senators and assemblymen. There was a surprise number of lawmakers who were out and out Janesville supporters and prospects looked very bright indeed.

Call on McGovern.
The committee called at the executive mansion this morning to pay respects to Governor McGovern but he was not at home. It is hoped that his aid may be enlisted in favor of Janesville.

The powers of the joint legislative committee include the decision of whether the fair shall be removed from Milwaukee, to what city it shall be removed if a change is deemed advisable and the amount of money which shall be appropriated to bring about the removal.

Question II.
Does due process of law in such cases entitle the officer attempted to be removed to a reasonable notice hearing, and of particulars of the charge and reasonable opportunity to be heard in person, to know the evidence to be considered, and a right to cross-examine opposing witnesses and present all evidence in his own behalf?

This question implies that the former one has been answered in the affirmative.

In such cases they need only contain the substantial fact that a proceeding to remove is intended. A charge of the words of the statute is sufficient. The length of notice depends upon the circumstances of each case. It is immaterial in what manner the notice is served, as objections to the service and sufficiency of the notice are waived by appearance and answer. The charge, and if it is apparent that there is good ground for removal and that any order restoring to office would be without practical effect, necessity of notice may be dispensed with. The removal of the officer could be removed again.

The strictness of a trial at law is not required even in those jurisdictions which treat the removal function as a judicial one. Witnesses need not be sworn or examined and cross-examination need not be a record of the proceedings but the removal of the officer expressly so provides.

Question III.
If an order for the removal of an officer is made without according to him these privileges, is it valid?

Yes, for three reasons:

First, because there is no jurisdiction to restrain the chief executive officer of the state. In the exercise of his official power any more than there is jurisdiction to restrain the legislature from adopting an unconstitutional law, especially in a suit by a private party brought in a circuit court. Second, because the termination of the validity of the order involves trial of title to the office, which may not be done in a suit by a private party. Third, because the chief executive officer is not bound by the judgment of the court in a suit by a private party.

Legislative Intent.
The question like the question whether or not the removal of an officer is a judicial function, is primarily one of legislative intent. It is evident that it was entirely competent for the legislature to determine the mode of removal of an officer. It was competent for it to determine whether notice and hearing were required. If it did not require the latter, it certainly did not require the former.

The consideration should not be lost sight of that the removing officer here is the head of a coordinate department of the state government elected by and responsible to the people. We have no purpose to discuss the question whether there exists constitutional power to judicially revoke or control his official action. The question is whether or not the legislature has the power to remove an officer. It is practically true that it is difficult to review evidence upon which the executive has acted for the purpose of determining whether or not he has acted in some reasonable way. It supports its conclusion, involves in a measure at least a review of his discretion.

Abuse of Discretion.
"Abuse of discretion" cannot well be determined by a review of discretion and to find abuse of discretion involves a finding of arbitrariness and is not far short of imputation of motives. It is likely that the legislature in 1894 in conferring the removal power upon an officer who had just been made head of a coordinate branch of government intended any purpose that his action in the exercise of his power was the subject of review by the various courts of the state to determine whether he acted upon sufficient evidence, or whether he had been arbitrary.

WILL DRAFT A REPLY TO JAPAN'S PROTEST AND FORTY INJURED IN NEBRASKA STORM

Wilson and Bryan to Confer
Before Submitting Matter to Cabinet Friday.

JOHNSON'S DECISION

To Sign Anti-Alien Land Bill
Communicated to Japanese Ambassador
Who Will Await Further Instructions.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, May 15.—President Wilson has arranged to confer with Secretary Bryan early tomorrow before the cabinet meeting to draft a reply to the formal protest by Japan against the California anti-alien land bill which Governor Johnson has announced he will sign.

The not will be submitted to the cabinet and then delivered to the Japanese ambassador. Indications are that the attitude of the federal government toward the legislation itself as well as questions of discrimination raised by Japan will be fully defined.

China is Informed.
Governor Johnson's decision to sign the California anti-alien land bill communicated today to Viscount Chiba, Japanese ambassador, as a matter of information with the understanding that Secretary Bryan may present daily with such communication as he may wish to make in behalf of the federal government.

Mr. Bryan is in New York and in his absence the subject will be considered by Secretary Moore to have ready for the secretary's use when he comes to the secretary's session when an effort will be made to reach final determination on the line of policy for the negotiations with Japan.

Must Await Orders.
When the ambassador has received Secretary Bryan's formal communication it will be necessary for him to communicate to the foreign office in Tokyo and receive instructions for preparing a rejoinder so that probably a week will elapse before the negotiations can move another step.

Interlocking with that part of the California law which recognizes the right of the United States to limit its action, so far as it recognizes Japanese rights to the existing treaty of 1911 and there is some speculation that the United States may be bound by the stipulations of any treaty that hereafter may be negotiated between the United States and Japan that would tend to be in conflict with the provisions of the new law.

An Act of Courtesy.
Officials here fail to discover any suggestion that Secretary Bryan when he was in Sacramento, with the probable exception of reference to the act that the present state constitution in terms sanctions and even requires inquiry into the propriety of such legislation as the Web act.

The fact that though announcing his intention to sign the act, Governor Johnson has not actually affixed his signature is regarded here as an act of courtesy intended to honor Japan to a last word from the administration if it should desire to communicate further with him before the final act of approval.

These Patients.
Tokio, May 15.—The foreign office is optimistic as to the outcome of the controversy over the California alien ownership legislation. In reply to the inquiry of a high official said: "The negotiations between Japan and the United States are progressing satisfactorily. We expect to reach a friendly and permanent solution of the difficulty."

BRIGADIER GENERAL SMITH
CEASES ACTIVE SERVICE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., May 15.—Brigadier General Frederick A. Smith, who has been commanding the Fifth Cavalry at Omaha, was placed on the retired list of the army today on account of having reached the age limit of 64 years. Gen. Smith is a native of New York and was graduated from West Point in 1881. His entire career has been in connection with the army branch of the service. In his early days as an officer he served in Indian campaigns in Arizona, Nevada and California. He saw active service in Porto Rico and later participated in the suppression of the insurrection in the Philippines. He reached the grade of brigadier-general in 1908.

From a Man's Point of View

It used to be said that newspaper advertising held very little interest for men. They were too busy, and were quite willing that their wives and mothers and sisters should read advertisements and attend to the household shopping.

That is all different now. At the clubs, in the hotels, when men are in the city, they are talking about the new hats at Scand-Sos or the smart boots at a popular shop or the splendid and satisfactory service received at a well known haberdashery.

Many stores make a special effort to plan their merchandise so that men, busy, particular, and quick, and are not only of correct and individual apparel, but of painstaking, intelligent and efficient service. That is what appeals to a man.

Un-doing men find just as much of valuable information in the advertising pages of THE GAZETTE as women do.

TEN PERSONS DEAD AND FORTY INJURED IN NEBRASKA STORM

District Southwest of Omaha Swept
By Tornado Causing Loss of Lives and Property Damage.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Omaha, May 15.—Reports received early today show that the destructive tornado which formed in the southwest part of Seward county last night took a toll of ten lives, injured forty persons and destroyed property valued at $25,000.

At least three towns—Seward, Tomar and McCool Junction—suffered from the elements, the greatest destruction being at Seward where eight persons were killed and thirty injured. At Seward the property loss in that city is estimated at $100,000.

Came From Southwest.
The tornado apparently originated southwest of McCool Junction and struck with full force both at Tomar and Seward. All telephone lines were down and the path of the storm. Until the wires were repaired the full extent of the damage and the number of casualties will not be definitely known.

The storm crossed this city near the southern limits, but its strength had been so far spent that the damage was not great. The fact, however, did not prevent Omaha generally from seeking refuge in cellars and other places considered tornado-proof. The experiences of Easter Sunday taught them to consider seriously the approach of a storm, and clouds and the appearance in the south of west of evening's storm was sufficient to set everybody to seeking an avenue of escape.

Escapes Storm's Ravages.
Seward, Neb., May 15.—Advices today from Tomar, Stanbury, Waco, Bee and Utica, west of Seward, which last night were reported damaged by the tornado, say that all those towns were out of the track of the storm. No direct reports have been received today from McCool Junction.

VOTE ON AMENDMENT FOR PUBLIC TARIFF HEARINGS BLOCKED

Senate Action on Tariff Bill is Further
Delayed by Argument Over
LaFollette-Penrose Amendment.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, May 15.—When the tariff bill came up in the senate again today there was a wrangle over whether or not Senator Kern's resolution for an investigation of the West Virginia coal strike situation should have the right of way. Mr. Aldrich finally agreed to defer his resolution until five o'clock.

An agreement to vote on the question of public hearings after five hours debate was about to be made by unanimous consent when Senator William Aldrich Smith blocked it.

"The attitude on the other side of the chamber," said he, "is so arbitrary in this matter that I do not feel it calls for any generosity from this side."

Debate on Amendment.
Debate was then resumed on the Penrose-LaFollette amendment to the tariff bill. The amendment provides for public hearings on the tariff bill.

Democratic senators tried again today for an agreement with the republicans for a vote on the motion to refer the tariff bill to the finance committee with the Penrose-LaFollette amendment.

Chairman Simmons was anxious to have the bill referred so that the committee could plan definite action on the schedules and have the bill ready for report to the senate by June 1. Nearly a week has gone by without progress in the senate.

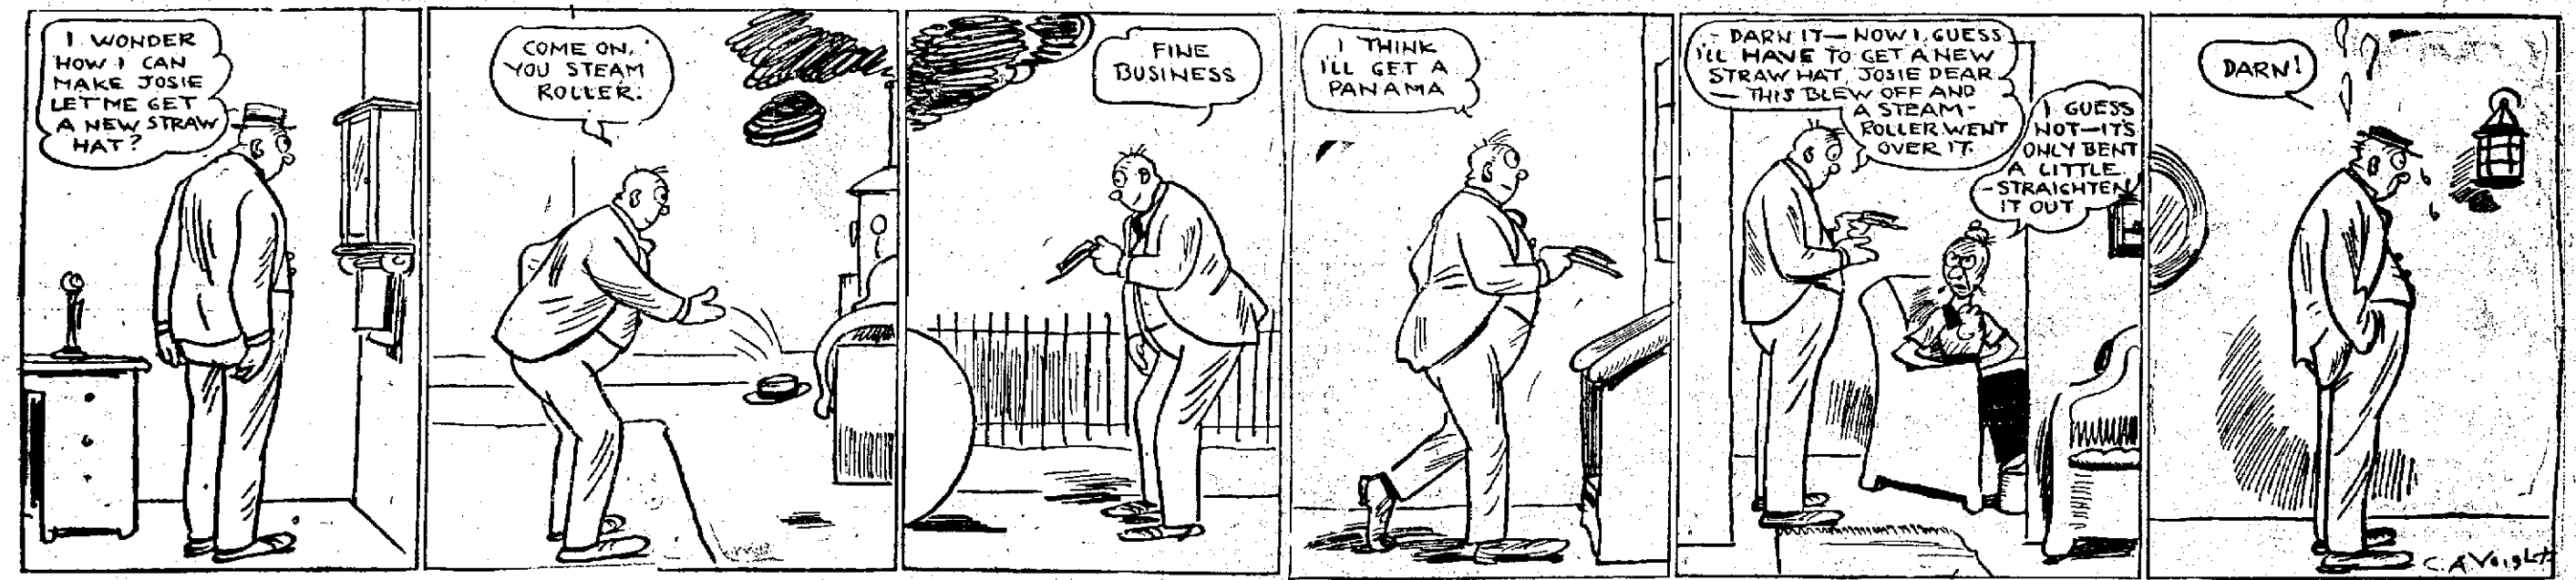

Coal Strike Probe.
Senator Kern's resolution for an investigation of conditions in the West Virginia coal strike situation, which has been pending in the senate since the time when it met today and some senators were confident that a vote would be reached before adjournment, was read and the amendment was then taken up.

Sharp Tilt in House.
Secretary Redfield's broad intention to business that the federal government would investigate the wages that look like reprisals for the passage of the tariff bill brought out a sharp cross-fire of speeches today.

Chairman Underwood of the Senate Finance Committee and Representative Underwood of the House of Representatives, during the brief session of the house, declared Representative Underwood's statement that wages would be investigated could be "forgiven because it was made in the heat of the debate."

Shots by Mondell.
Secretary Redfield has no such excuse, he said. "Every right-minded citizen," continued Mr. Mondell, "hopes for a fair and equitable conduct of the country's industry. But a republican law which says any man shall come under adverse conditions and continue his business at will."

The democrats, he declared

Clyde Milan, of Washington, has averaged one stolen base to a game since the A. L. season began. He's after a new record this year, but must pilfer 50 sacks to beat Stovey's record. However, if he keeps his present pace he may startle the world with a new mark.

New Orleans has announced the Rohe. In 1906 Rohe was an unknown youngster with the Chicago White Sox. He jumped into the world's series of that year, and by fast fielding and some two-base hits made the hitless wonders champions of the diamond. Rohe is an example of the ups and downs of the game. Jiggs Donohue is another.

George McBride, shortstop of the Washington Nationals, has made one of the most wonderful records in major league baseball. From what we hear from Joe Mandot's training camp, the French lightweight will not accept the offer made by Dr. Oeler of $25,000 for Mandot's body after death. BUTTERS TO RESCUE IN GAME WEDNESDAY

Janesville Twirler Strikes Out Five Men for Madison in Wausau Contest.

That Thomas Butters is making good with the Madison baseball club is shown by the way in which he pitched yesterday against Wausau. After two Madison pitchers failed to stop the slugging of the northern team, Butters was sent to the box. He must have regained his control, for he did not issue a pass, and struck out five men. The fact that he is gaining his control will be good news to many a local fan. It is hoped that he will be successful in holding a berth with the Madison team. Had he pitched the entire game against Wausau, he might have won, but he was sent in too late to recover the lead which the Wausau team had acquired. The score was 9 to 4 in favor of Wausau.

FAVOR TROPHY CUP FOR A CLASS TOKEN

High School Graduating Class May Amend Action Taken at Meeting Last Evening.

Although the members of the high school graduating class at a meeting yesterday voted to present the school with a trophy cup for the purpose of encouraging class athletic contests, as their token, it is possible that the action will be re-considered as the members of the class are not all satisfied with the decision.

The idea in adopting the trophy cup as the gift of the class was urged on the grounds that it would promote rivalry among the classes and take the place of the Dennison cup which meant so much to former classes.

Several other suggestions have been made by different members of the class and Benjamin Kuhlman, president, will doubtless call another meeting to consider the matter further.

The gift of last year's graduating class has just been received by the high school. It is a bust of Charles Dickens and is a beautiful trophy.

Leonard. Leonard is a recruit fliker with the champion Boston Red Sox. He is believed to be one of the best prospects the club has picked up in some seasons.

Considerable trouble was experienced in obtaining the bust. When it was ordered last year, there was no such bust in stock, and the class wished this particular piece for a token, they decided to wait, but will soon be added to the many other tokens about the rooms of the school.

NEBRASKA BASEBALL LEAGUE BEGINS CHAMPIONSHIP SEASON

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Grand Island, Neb., May 15.—Under conditions that are regarded as of most favorable nature, the Nebraska State Baseball league started today on its championship season of 1913. Each of the eight clubs is reported in good condition. In five of the eight towns of the circuit Sunday ball will be played this year. In the opening games Superior lined up at Fremont, York at Kearney, Seward at Columbus and Hastings at Grand Island.

Irish Village Seems Doomed.

The historic village of Ardmore, County Waterford, Ireland, is doomed by the incoming sea, according to a recent report. The village is eight miles from Youghal, and contains many interesting remains of early ecclesiastical architecture.

Hard to Please.
An old citizen in a country village, being asked for a subscription toward repairing the fence of the graveyard, declined, saying: "I subscribed toward improving that burying ground high on to forty years ago and my family hasn't had no benefit from it yet."

Federal Aid.
Mantell—"I had no idea that Banks was worth more than ten millions." Dunlop—"He wasn't till the government dissolved his trust."

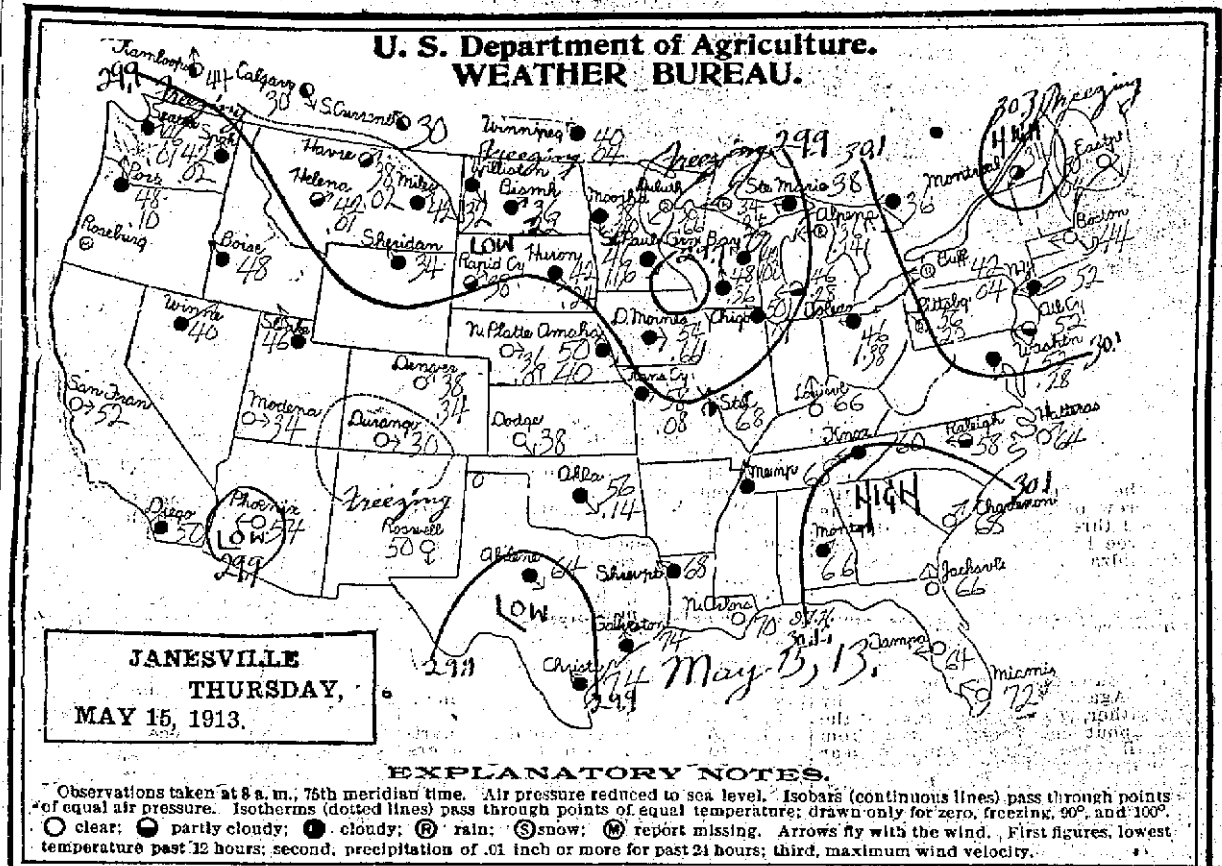

Matter of Judgment.
"So you suspect that men are quicker of judgment in practical matters than women?" asked her friend of the middle-aged spinster. "Yea," replied Miss Cayenne. "Men have heeded the warnings of the newspapers and quit buying gold bricks, but women continue to marry for money."

Beatitude Explained.
"Why does the Bible say that peace-makers are blessed?" asked the Boob. "Because they are the shock-absorbers on the journey of life," replied the Wise Guy.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A MINIMUM WAGE SCALE.

Senator J. Ham, Lewis of Illinois loses no time in breaking into the upper house of congress with a bill providing for a minimum wage scale for all corporations engaged in interstate business.

This innovation did not originate in the brain of the freak senator, but was devised by Colonel Roosevelt and incorporated in the "Bull Moose" platform as one of its prominent planks. It was a bid for votes on the part of the ambitious colonel, and is a bid for notoriety by Senator J. Ham, Lewis, who has long been noted for spectacular performances. The fact that it has the approval of Senator La Follette would naturally be expected.

The bill will be referred to a committee and then pigeon-holed for indefinite postponement, for the senate, while burdened with freaks, is still controlled by a common sense majority.

The fixing of wage scales by law is on a par with President Wilson's theories about compelling factories to run regardless of depression or a shortage of orders. The law of supply and demand is the only regulator of wages, and if American industries suffer through tariff regulation, labor will be the first to suffer.

Times have been so prosperous during the past dozen years or more that a job for every man has been waiting, and frequently the supply of jobs far exceeded the supply of men. Under these conditions wages take care of themselves, but when two men are waiting for every job, as is the case when times are hard, the question of wages becomes insignificant, as compared to the question of bread, which is paramount.

It is not surprising that the new generation is optimistic. The panic of 1893-94 is history, but to men like Wilson, Roosevelt, Lewis and La Follette the case is different. They were actors on the stage when the soup house was a popular resort, and when an army of idle men tramped the country, pleading in vain for work at any wage.

Their attitude on many questions, at the present time, can only be accounted for by the fact that they have long fed at the public crib and are as destitute of practical knowledge in the field of industry, as a new-born babe.

The railroads of the country are suffering today from the dictation of this class of leaders. They are badly handicapped for capital because their credit has been weakened by unjust legislation. The minimum wage scale is intended to add to their burdens, and unless there is a change of policy many of these corporations will be in the hands of receivers before the next national election. Over-regulation amounts to oppression and all corporations are under the ban.

FLOODS AND FAT PORK.
Great game, this spending of public funds in aid of navigation and political aspiration! says Walter V. Woelke in the June Technical World magazine.

For the convenience and the comfort of the wealthy club, national funds are readily available, but for the protection of a hundred thousand flooded homes, expenditures must be stinted, culled, pared, made with averted, frowning faces.

There is always money for the "improvement" of obscure creeks and impassable, empty estuaries; there is a splendid, smoothly working system for the efficient disbursement of national funds on political shoals that lie between congressional districts and the public crib at Washington, but there is no system, no smooth-working, comprehensive plan to cope with the floods whose ever-rising crests annually demand a greater toll in property and lives.

Officially, congress has not cared whether the entire country is flooded ten feet deep every year. Officially, congress has not been in the flood protection business. Its sole aim has been to "promote commerce and aid navigation." It incidentally, a few dredged creeks will carry off the flood of adverse votes that threaten to maroon the perspiring M. C. at his home far from the fleshpots of Washington, if none and the same operation will remove a bar from the path of commerce and clear the shoals out of the political career of the seed-disseminating incumbent, well and good, that is none of the public's business. Congress, however, must not appropriate money for flood control. "Aid to navigation," that is the "rescue term" which opens the door of the treasury.

Of course, there is a good reason for the monotonous recurrence of breaks in the American levees. Pork, national and local, is the principal of these reasons. The last act of an expiring congress is to pass the appropriation bill, familiarly known as the "pork barrel," because it carries all sorts of demands, and covers a multitude of sins. When a great calamity comes to any section of the country, and people are left destitute and homeless, the discovery is made that the pork barrel bill makes no provision for such emergencies, and so the government sends out a lot of second-hand army tents, while the people all over the land furrow their brows of war.

The recent floods in Ohio left a wreckage of homes and fortunes, yet the government was powerless to render much in the way of substantial aid. If the Booster club makes a record and becomes a permanent organization it will be because it appeals to the masses. The Twilight club and the Commercial club are business men's organizations, and both are helpful to the business interests of the city, but they are regarded by the masses very much as the touring car, which takes the dust of the street, and the disgust of the great army of people who regard the machine as the rich man's luxury. The Booster club is organized to fill a long-felt want, namely to interest all classes. It is the common people's organization, and if properly handled the discovery will soon be made that ninety per cent of all the people are just common, every day folks, filled with sympathy and hard common sense. Give this great majority full swing, in the Booster club, and it will make history seven days in the week.

The self-styled republican love feast at Madison last evening was perhaps satisfying to the men in attendance, but its influence along the lines of reorganization will be nil. The prime object of the meeting seemed to be to promote the political ambitions of Senator La Follette. If the republican party is to be resuscitated, the plan of reorganization must be on a broad plane than personal ambition. The destiny of the party is more important than the destiny of the individual.

The golf course was never in better shape than it is this spring. What the club needs is fifty new active members, and this number could be readily secured if the people of the city appreciated their opportunities. Join the ranks, renew your youth, and become a golf enthusiast.

For the first time in many years the people of Janesville are pulling together, and results are already satisfying. The strength of united effort is never disappointing. If we don't secure the state fair, we will have the pleasure of knowing that we worked together for it.

"Janesville never looked better than it does today, and the city never contained a more contented and happy lot of people. The booster spirit is in the air and the outlook for growth and development is encouraging."

It has been suggested that a sprinkling of sand on the newly oiled streets would be an improvement, which possibly may not have occurred to the commissioner in charge of the work.

APPROPRIATE

The Two-Piece Suit.
Oh, two-piece suit of yesterday,
I need thee once again,
And thy appearance nowadays
Cannot but cause me pain.

I hung thee up last autumn in
My clothespress without fear;
I counted on thee, good kind friend,
To help me out this year.

Alack thou'rt now a peeka-boo
And that is not the worst,
Thy bosom and thy tails are gone,
The moths got to thee first.

Making Money.
Getting rich is the art of making a whole lot of money. Any one who can make a great deal of money can be rich just as well as not. If any man makes a tremendous amount of money and saves it and is not rich, it is his own fault.

There are many ways of making a great deal of money. Any young man who desires to amass a fortune can do so by following the Oilyfeller plan. This plan is awfully simple but, after you have got it, what's the difference. The Oilyfeller plan is merely to gain control of the entire oil output of the country. Riches follow quickly after this is accomplished.

Try the Oilyfeller plan. Go out as he did and get a half-Nelson hold on the oil supply of the United States. When noted economists sit up and burn the midnight oil trying to devise ways and means of putting you out of business you will have the consolation of knowing that they must pay you for the oil. There is a lot of midnight oil buried in this country.

Should you follow the Oilyfeller system the ways of making money are as numerous as the sands of the sea. When you sit on your front porch reading your bible and see an automobile go by it will suggest an idea to you and you will raise the price of gasoline a cent a gallon. When you see two automobiles go by it will suggest another idea to you and you will raise the price of gasoline two cents a gallon—three automobiles, three cents and so on until you can make eight or ten million dollars a day in this manner.

When you are on the train and the conductor comes through with his lantern the lantern will suggest another way to "make money." It will remind you to raise the price of kerosene a cent a gallon. When the brakeman comes through with his lantern it will remind you to raise the price of kerosene another cent.

The Oilyfeller plan is one of the best we have heard of. The first step a young man is to gain control of the oil output of the entire country. After that the young man of intelligence should be able to pick up a bit of dough.

Signs of the Times.
There are times when it seems as though life, after all, is just one damned thing after another, especially when you are trying to find a comfortable pair of socks.

The Japanese government has borrowed $38,000,000 in France. Can't Mr. Johnson see a little streak of yellow in this?

A good many boys who are starting out to be president of this country evidently have that annual baseball pass in mind.

Millionaires' sons in the east are taking up scientific farming. Millionaires' sons are among the few who can afford it.

John D.'s income tax will amount to $2,000,000. Can't some one find a substitute for gasoline quick?

Ham Lewis took forty trunks to Washington. As a senator J. Ham is one of our best tailor aids.

J. P. Morgan and company has hired a $25,000 a year to have charge of its publicity department. He must be the personal friend of some one in the company as no strange journalist would be likely to cut prices the way he is about to do.

Mexico needs fewer provisional presidents and more provisions. If they're only going to impose the tax on incomes of over $4,000, most of us can qualify in the I-should-worry class.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

IN THE MORNING.

In my boyhood the sun always rose in the east. Finding subsequent wanderings, owing to my faculty of getting turned around, it rises in the south, the west, the north, or most any old direction except the right one. So when I think of a morning it is usually of a morning of my boyhood. The points of the compass are necessary to the proper appreciation of such things. When I was a boy the sun used to rise and shine into my window through an old locust tree. There was some kind of wonderful bird that sang to me. I do not to this day know what kind of bird it was, but the song was very sweet. I get a sort of shivery happiness away down inside of me when I hear it to this very day.

Those were wonderful mornings—when I was a boy. There were generally dewdrops on the hollyhocks, and they gleamed—well, as the dew does gleam on hollyhocks when you are a boy. You know how it is yourself. Don't expect me to spoil it by comparing it to diamonds or any such junk. That would be out of the picture. I knew nothing about diamonds then—and know little now.

So when I think of a morning scene it is of those morning scenes. There was the little hill in the sheep pasture across the road, and the summer sun peeped up over its shoulder. And there was the cherry tree where the swing was, and the sun sort of slanted around from the hill and through the locust and into this cherry tree.

A little farther on was a strip of woods where the whippoorwills and the frogs sang at night, and where we made paths through the leaves so that we could creep up on the squirrels without scaring them. All of that is in the picture, although it may seem that the paths are paths of digression.

Yes, and there were dreams. No morning when you are a boy is complete without dreams.

There were dreams of fame, of love and of high adventure, of course. All boys have them. Yet in my own case there was one particular vision that did not concern me personally or concerned me only as a part of the general human scheme. It was that we are in a new morning of humanity of which those physical mornings were but symbols. There was a better day coming—a new order.

Maybe the dream is coming true. Perhaps there is a new day breaking over the earth. Perhaps there is a new morning for humanity.

Couldn't Do Two Things at Once.
Carol had often heard his mother say, "I can't possibly do two things at the same time," and was evidently impressed by the phrase. One evening her father came in and said: "Carol, please bring me the evening paper, and tell your mother that I am here."

"But, daddy," replied the young lady, "I can't possibly do two things at both times."

Dinner Stories

Lord Ellenborough, the great English judge, was once about to go on circuit when Lady Ellenborough said she should like to accompany him. He replied that he had no objection, provided she did not encumber the carriage with handboxes, which were his utter abhorrence. During the hand box. Up went the window and out went the handbox. The coachman stopped, and the footman thinking that the handbox had tumbled out of the window by some extraordinary chance, was going to pick it up, when Lord Ellenborough, furiously called out, "Drive on!" The handbox accordingly was left by the ditch side. Having reached the country town where he was to officiate as judge, Lord Ellenborough proceeded to array himself for his appearance in the court house. "Now," said he, "where's my wig—where is my wig?" "My lord," replied the attendant, "it was thrown out of the carriage window."

One summer a well-known solicitor went with his family to a small seaside resort on the east coast of England, and boarded with a farmer who was in the habit of taking boarders. The next year he wrote to the farmer, and in his letter said: "There are several small matters that I desire changed should I decide to pass my holidays at your house. We don't like the maid 'Mary,' moreover, we do not think a sty so near the house is sanitary."

The farmer replied: "Mary is well, and we haven't had no 'ogs since you went away last August."

HAS PLAN TO KEEP BOYS ON THE FARM

David F. Houston.

Secretary of Agriculture David F. Houston believes that "farmers' sons" should be given better inducements to remain on the farm. He thinks the drift cityward would be much less pronounced if better educational advantages were given farmers' sons and daughters.

"The farmer must either maintain his farm at the expense of the education of his children, or move to one of the large cities," declares Houston. "So, education, among other things, is driving occupants of farms to the cities."

TOMORROW

A 3-part Cinemas Feature.

A rich old miser living alone with Peter, his butler, derives no greater pleasure than exacting every penny of interest from his tenants and hoarding his money in a secret vault. This vault is in the cellar of his house, and access to it is only gained by a series of concealed trapdoors operated by electricity. His miserly disposition is clearly shown when he refuses to aid his only near relative, Mrs. Rice, who is in almost destitute circumstances.

One day, Peter is surprised by his master while watching him in the treasure chamber. In the light of the camera, the miser is accidentally killed, and Peter, having been turned over to the police, is later sent to the penitentiary.

The property of the miser descends to Mrs. Rice and her daughter, Dorothy, but they cannot locate his money. Peter, now serving time, confesses the secret of the hidden money to a fellow prisoner. The latter finally escapes when being transferred to another building, and remembering the story told him by Peter, starts out to find the house. He gains entrance, to the secret room, but tapers with the wrong levers, and is suddenly seized by two steel arms and held fast, as in a vise, with no one to hear his death cries.

Some years later, because of his good conduct and the warden's gratitude for the revealing of his life in prison, Peter obtains a pardon. He returns to his home town, and finds the widow and daughter have mortgaged everything to meet the demands of their creditors, and are about to be put out. Dorothy is greatly beloved by the mortgagee's son, but the stern father will not allow his son to marry her. Then she is informed of the secret of the money chamber by the old butler, she in turn tells her sweetheart. He hastens to impart the news to his father, who, much like the miser in his love for riches goes in search of the money.

He is successful in gaining entrance to the cellar, where his search eventually reveals the skeleton of the former convict still in the clutches of the steel arms. In his frantic effort to leave the gruesome place, he finds himself in a trap. However, his faint cries are heard. With the assistance of Peter, the vault is again opened, and the father staggers out.

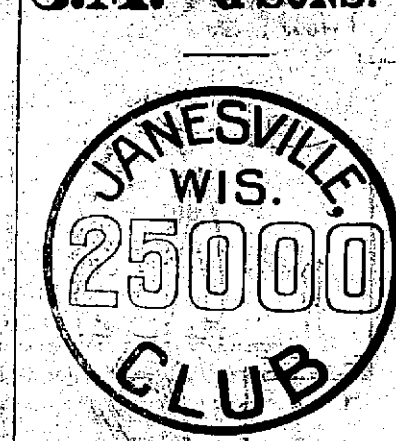

The miser's hoard of gold is found to be intact, and as a result of its findings, Dorothy is happily married.

POSTPONE HEARING UNTIL NEXT MONTH

WATERWORKS MATTER WILL BE TAKEN UP BEFORE RAILROAD COMMISSION ON JUNE 10.

EXPECT AN AGREEMENT

Will Be Reached Between Commission City and Water Company As Regards Price for Purchase. On agreement of the parties the hearing in the matter of the Janesville water works case was postponed until June 10, at which time Chairman Rochester stated he would have all members of the railroad commission present.

The hearing was scheduled to be held before the commissioners at Madison today and the Janesville delegation was prepared to present their respective sides of the case. Attorney W. H. Dougherty, Mayor James A. Fathers and Councilman Roy M. Cummings were in attendance for the city, while the water company was represented by Attorneys M. G. Jeffris and O. A. Oestreich.

The water company at present objects to the arrangements by which the commission has ordered the purchase of the plant by the city, for performance with the action taken by the voters of the city at the election in 1912. The question of the amount to be paid for the plant is now in controversy.

Mr. Dougherty stated this afternoon following the adjournment, to a representative of the Gazette, that he felt sure that the three parties—the city, the water company and the commission—would be able to reach an agreement on the matter of the purchase price before the hearing in June. This will facilitate matters considerably and will only leave certain minor matters of a legal nature to be settled.

There is nothing special about these P. W. wagons except the color, they are of the regular 1500-pound type, so largely and successfully used in the service of dry goods stores, groceries, plumbers, provisioners and others.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN AND BADLY INJURED

Deny That Office is a Property Right—Strictness of a Trial of Law is Not Required.

James Clifford, residing at 514 South Pearl street, lies at the point of death at the Mercy hospital as a result of being struck by a Northwestern passenger train last evening at the Pearl street crossing. Up to a late hour this morning the injured man had not regained consciousness and because of a fracture at the base of his skull and several bad cuts about the head his recovery is doubtful. No one saw the accident, as far as could be learned, and judging from the time that the man was carried to the Mercy hospital that the northbound Northwestern train due in Janesville at eight o'clock was the train that struck him.

It was some little time after the accident before Mr. Clifford was discovered by one of his neighbors who happened to be passing and who noticed that a dog belonging to the Clifford family was running along the side of the track and whining in a pitiful manner. On investigation Mr. Clifford was found in an unconscious condition a short distance from the crossing. He was taken home and Dr. G. W. Fifield called, who on seeing the seriousness of the man's injuries ordered him taken to the Mercy hospital.

Besides having a fracture at the base of the skull his face was badly cut, having long gashes on his forehead and behind one of his ears. Up to eleven o'clock this morning Clifford had not regained his senses.

All passenger trains are required to slow up at this point and the train which had been traveling at a high rate of speed, this is not the first time that Mr. Clifford had met with such an accident, being severely hurt some years ago when he was struck by a switch-engine.

Mr. Clifford was employed by the St. Paul railroad at their gravel pits and has worked for this company for some time. He is nearly fifty years of age.

This afternoon Mr. Clifford regained consciousness but was in such a critical condition that he was unable to carry on any conversation. Because of no improvement in the patient, with high temperature, very few hopes are entertained for his recovery.

The following grocers signed the agreement:

Beloit was selected as the city in which the next state convention of the Knights of Columbus will be held at the invitation of the local chapter, Kosh, Marinette and Manitowoc being rivals for the distinction. The debate on the question was marked by much good natured banter and exaggerated claims. The chapter has the largest council in the state in point of insurance membership. The Janesville delegates to the convention were expected to return some time today.

It is told of a certain prominent Englishman that while on one occasion he was writing a letter in a restaurant he noticed a Scotchman reading it over his shoulder. The letter concluded as follows: "I would write more if it were not for a— inquisitive Scotchman who is looking over my shoulder and reading every word I write." "It's a lie, sir," shouted the Scotchman, "I haven't seen a word."

PLANS FOR BRIDGE SHOWN TO RAILWAY COMMISSION TODAY

Beautiful Four Arch Concrete Structure Designed by City Engineer—Waterworks Hearing Held.

Plans and specifications for a four arch reinforced bridge to replace the present Milwaukee street bridge, partially destroyed by fire on the night of April 1, were submitted to the Wisconsin Railway Commission by the Board of Public Works. The principal reason for presenting the plans for the inspection of the commission is that all plans for bridges on which are laid tracks for street and interurban railway tracks must meet with its approval, but City Engineer Keruh, their author, was also desirous of receiving whatever suggestions the commission engineers had to offer.

The design for the new structure is very attractive and promises a bridge that will be an object of civic pride. It will rest upon three piers and massive abutments at each bank. Ten foot sidewalks are provided for on either side and the outer edges of the bridge will be flanked by a beautiful concrete railing. Each pier will be capped with an ornamental electric light standard of the type in use in this city, the upper part of the pier forming the base. Each span will be fifty-two feet in length, and the deck of the bridge is safely above the highest water mark ever registered here, that of 1891.

Mayor Fathers, Councilman Cummings, City Attorney W. H. Dougherty, and attorneys and representatives of the Janesville Water Company were also in Madison today to attend the hearing and take part in the valuation of the water works before the Railway Commission. Other interested citizens were present. The valuation of the commission made preparatory to the sale of the waterworks to the city of Janesville, was discussed.

Indiana Commercial Travelers in Session.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Lafayette, Ind., May 15.—Members of the Indiana grand council of the United Commercial Travelers of America gathered here in force today for the opening of their silver jubilee convention. Grand Councilor, Edward F. Leaver, of Terre Haute, presided at the opening session. Many features of entertainment have been arranged for the delegates and the visiting ladies. The convention will conclude Saturday with the election of officers and the selections of a meeting place for 1914. Evansville, Ft. Wayne and Terre Haute are contesting for the next convention.

Possible Favor.

Mrs. Upin Cloudland—"And now, Bridget, you have served me so well, what do you want for your birthday? I want to give you something you'll like very much." Bridget—"If it's all the same to ye, mum, I rather ye'd gimme me back wages."

Wise Old Gentleman.

An old gentleman, whose character was unimpeached and unimpeachable, for some slight cause was challenged by a dissolute young Hotspur, who was determined that the old gentleman should give him honorable satisfaction. The old gentleman very good-naturedly refused to fight, and the fellow threatened to "gazette" him as a coward. "Well, go ahead—I would rather fill 20 newspapers than one column," rejoined the old gentleman.

Parliamentary.

It was getting late, and still the venerable ex-United States senator lingered in the parlor with the young people. Evidently something had to be done. "I hope, papa," said his daughter, gently but resolutely, "that you will not be offended if I now move a close call of the house, during which all persons not entitled to a voice in the proceedings will please retire, while Charlie and I discuss a question of personal privilege!"

Clean Sponge.

If a sponge has become slimy the condition may be remedied by soaking it in strong borax water. Wring it out, place in a fresh supply of borax water, and continue the process until the sponge is clean.

Where He Had Run.

"I hear Arthur has bought a motor car." "Yes." "Where has he run with it so far?" "Principally into debt."

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

A SENSE OF VALUE AND PROPORTION. A SENSE OF PROPORTION. It is something a great many people seem to lack.

I have a neighbor who is a good woman and a better housekeeper. She is spending the very heart out of herself to eke out her husband's small salary. She has two children. Only goodness knows how little a week, she has family of four with good food, decent clothes, and an immaculate home. She is known as the best housekeeper in the neighborhood. Now the oldest of this woman's two children, is a boy of 16, an intelligent, energetic, live wire of a boy, the kind who amounts to something if his energy is properly utilized, and makes trouble for everybody concerned. It isn't this boy's teacher who became deeply interested in photography. Someone gave him a second-hand camera, and he invested some of the money he earned in materials, converted the bathroom into a dark room, and began fussing around with all the paraphernalia of amateur photography.

Now if you ever had an amateur photographer in your bathroom, you know what that means—the blankets dragged from the bed and hung over the bathroom window, films and partly dried prints scattered over everything, a pie-plate, filled with developer in the bath-tub, a saucer of hypo on the floor, and a batch of films being washed in the bowl. The best housekeeper in the neighborhood stood it twice, then she put her foot down. She said she was working herself to death trying to make a good home for her family, and she couldn't keep things decent with her son messing round like that. That ended the photography.

The last time I saw that boy he was loitering on a street corner with three very questionable looking companions. That illustrates what I mean by a lack of a sense of proportions. That woman thought that a house always in order, a beautiful thing, is, but there are other things more beautiful and more important. She didn't realize that. I'm afraid she will some time.

Again, a little girl from the country was visiting her city cousin and was asked to a theatre party. She positively could not afford to buy long gloves, and wore her short ones although her droop had shown. She took the gloves off as soon as she entered the theatre and devoutly hoped that no one would notice. But her city cousin spied her and was horrified. "My dear," she protested, "no one takes their gloves off in the theatre." Now that woman knew that it was a good thing to conform to social custom. She lost sight of the fact that the higher courtesy which will not hurt another's feelings is infinitely more important than the lower one.

In a certain summer home a wonderful view is lost to the living room because there is no window in the north corner. I asked the man who built it why that was and he said it would have spoiled the symmetry of the house to put a window there. Think of letting symmetry weigh against the opportunity to look out on a view! I wonder wherein our country and I lack sense of proportion. "Oh wad some power the giffie gie us!"

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Alvine Mitchell Kirk

Jelly.—Sugar, 1 cup; lemon juice, 1-2 cup. Directions—Soften the gelatine for a few minutes in the cold water. Dissolve in the boiling water and add the sugar. When cold add the lemon juice, strain through the cheese cloth, turn into the wet mold and chill in a cold place or on ice. Fruits or nuts may be molded in this and turned out on a dish and served with whipped cream. Part of the juice with the lemon is fine.

Orange Jelly.—Materials—Granulated gelatine, 1-2 box; cold water, 1 cup; boiling water, 1-2 cup; orange juice, 1-2 cups; sugar, 1 cup; lime juice, 3 t. Utensils and directions are the same as in lemon jelly. Instead of turning into a mold, cut the oranges in half, remove the seeds, and fill with the jelly. When cold, stand aside to harden. Or make a small opening in the top of the orange, fill with the jelly, and fill the shell with the jelly. When cold and hardened cut the oranges in quarters. This is very attractive, as a garnish.

Wine Jelly.—This is made the same as orange jelly, only substitute sherry or Madeira or Sauterne wine, one cup and one-third cup of orange juice, or all wine with the lemon juice may be used as desired, stronger in flavor.

Materials—Prunes.—3-4 lb.; granulated gelatine, 2 tablespoons; water, 1-2 cup; sugar, 2-3 cup; orange marmalade, 1-8 cup; lemon, 1; blanched almonds, whipped cream or boiled custard.

Directions—Wash prunes carefully and let stand covered with cold water over night. Cook in the same water, adding more if needed, until tender. Cut prunes in four or more lengthwise strips, discarding stones. Soften gelatine in cold water and dissolve in the hot prune juice; add sugar and stir until dissolved. Then add orange marmalade, lemon juice, the slices of prunes and enough water to make one quart in all; decorate a mold with halves of almonds; cover the almonds with seeded prunes, which should be set aside for this purpose. When the prune mixture is cold and beginning to thicken, put it into the mold. Set the first in place by spoonfuls so the decoration is disturbed. Serve with plain or whipped cream, or with boiled custard.

Lemon Jelly.—There are many dishes which have this jelly as a basis. It is well to have an accurate recipe for it. Sweetened it is fine for all desserts. Unsweetened it may be used with vegetables, such as lettuce, tomatoes, cucumbers or any others which are appropriate in salads, and serve with mayonnaise.

Materials—Granulated gelatine, 1-2 box or 2 tablespoons; cold water, 1-2 cup; boiling water, 2-3 cups; red cream, or with boiled custard.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Worth Knowing. Ice Bag—If you want to take ice on a picnic, make a bag large enough to hold the ice, then make another bag, larger and fill the space between with sawdust. This is heat-proof.

To Mend Ragged Music—Cut a piece of manila paper the size of the sheet of music, and wrap around a picture mat, paste this over the edges of your worn sheet of music and it will last for years.

When hot-starching any garment which has a draw string at the waist, line, gather that part up in one hand so that it does not dip into the starch. This prevents any difficulty in drawing up the tape or putting in a new one, saves many rents and makes the starch set instead of bunchy when the garment is in use.

The Table. Cadillac Cucumber Sauce—Pare one cucumber, chop and drain thoroughly. Beat one-half cupful of heavy cream, add cucumber and season with one-half teaspoonful of salt and a few grains of pepper; then add very gradually two tablespoons of vinegar.

Duchess Salad.—Take one cupful of cold chicken or turkey cut into dice. Add two-thirds cupful of celery cut fine and one tablespoonful of minced onion. Add a little salt and toss together with three tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise dressing. Let stand an hour or two. Ten minutes before serving add one-half cupful of tart apple ginger, one tablespoon soda, 1 1/2 tablespoons vinegar, flour enough to knead soft.

Homemade Crackfiller: two kinds (1)—Dissolve glue in water and add as much very fine sawdust as required. (2) Soak two newspapers in water mix with one-half pound flour, two quarts water and one-half pound alum. Boil until it forms paste. It will be as thick as putty when it is put into the cracks it will harden.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

WHAT'S the best thing in the world? June rose by May dew imperiled; Sweet south wind that means no rain, Truth, not, and a friend.

What's the best thing in the world? Something out of it, I think. —E. B. Browning.

POTATOES IN VARIOUS WAYS.

Nice mealy potatoes are never better served than when mashed, but they are mashed potatoes and mashed potatoes. They should be mashed until free from lumps, then after adding hot milk, butter and salt, beat well until light and white and fluffy. So-called mashed potatoes that are served-half mashed are not nearly so appetizing as the plain boiled potatoes, mealy and hot.

There is less time and thought given to the preparation of vegetables in most homes than is given to any other food. We treat the good old vegetable as if there were but ten or a dozen ways of preparing it.

Lyonnaise Potatoes.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add a tablespoonful of chopped onion, and when the onion is yellow add two cups of potato cubes, season with salt and pepper and cook until the potatoes are well heated through. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve. Freshly cooked potatoes are better for this dish, although cold cooked potatoes will do very well.

Simple escaloped potatoes, which are very appetizing and a change from the ordinary way, is to mix well cooked cubes of potato with a rich white sauce, cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven. A little onion juice added to the sauce will improve the flavor.

When there is sufficient mashed potato left, place it in a well buttered baking dish, brush with well beaten egg and bake until brown. Serve from the baking dish in which it was baked. A mold of chopped beef, well seasoned, may be covered with the mashed potatoes, brushed with egg and baked, making a good dish for supper or luncheon.

Potato Puff.—Prepare two cups of hot mashed potato. Add a half cup of milk, two well beaten yolks of eggs, two tablespoonfuls of butter, salt and pepper to taste; beat well and add the well beaten whites of the eggs. Pile lightly in a buttered baking dish and bake until puffed and brown.

Every Day Talks For Every Day People

Mrs. John Martin of New York says: "The family is falling apart. Children year by year because the mother is abandoning her true duties in the effort to take up state duties. The type of the modern woman is successful in the business office and it looks as though she would in time reach the high position of being a politician."

Now if this isn't the quintessence of sarcasm, please tell me what is. She extends her conclusion to England on account of the behavior—or rather the misbehavior of the militants. She says that when women carry banners inscribed "Homes for women" not "Votes for women," new era shall have been started in woman's history.

Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, also of New York, says that "Man is a creature who rushes ahead like a steam engine and certainly does accomplish a great deal of work." That all his work lawmaking included, would be the better if the placid soul of a woman was alongside him to tone down his sharpness, to round off his curves.

It is not the economical question, but the spiritual and educational one that counts. She claims that if women were permitted to take their views at the framing of the laws, their influence would be elevating in the extreme. And there you are! It looks like a case of "many men of many minds," does it not?

It is not my intention or desire to state any views on the subject of woman suffrage. I am a firm believer in absolute silence where one is not well posted. I believe in the sincerity of the many women who today all over this land of ours are working hard to aid their less fortunate sisters.

But here and now—Put me down as one who does not believe in a woman with "one eye" to care for waiting to go out and join in the procession. Silent forces are the strongest. It's the fireless women who really run our nation. It is when we are going to wake up to the fact that it is to raise our boys and girls to be able to meet temptation and pass it by, to be masters of themselves, to be honest, clean and pure, we will have done more—far more—than we could possibly accomplish by neglecting our "wee ones" and taking up some of the "causes" that women are working so faithfully on today. Again I say, am the last one who would deny the work our good women in public life are doing. But as there must be different vocations in this world I am strongly in favor of the mothers saying to the "wee ones" during the years that they need the tender care of a mother.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Please tell me what to do about a boy telling someone a lie on me. Should I inquire and find out the one who told it, then tell them what I think about "liars"? Or should I just let it go? (2) If one has cold hands, are they in love? (3) Do you think it any harm for a girl to be plucky in a crowd? (4) Should a girl let a boy hold her hand for a while when he is taking his leave? (5) Do you see harm in that? (6) Is it nice for a girl to let a boy kiss her good-bye if she has known him a good while when he starts off to be gone for months? (7) If a girl was engaged to a boy and he left all right for him to kiss her when he takes his leave? Then, if they parted, should he go around telling it, as some will you know. (8) What is good for perspiring hands and feet? (9) Please tell me how to tell if camphor-ice will injure the skin or make fine hairs come? (10) What is good for a bad smelling breath? (11) Do you think jealous hearted boys or girls are very good to kiss if they are? (12) Is my writing so very bad? (13) Is eighteen too young to be married?

"JOLLY." (1) If it is a harmless lie, let it pass. If it is harmful, trace it and tell your friends who told it, and why it was told. (2) They say "Cold hands, warm heart." Cold hands may come from excitement or "nerves," but are no sure indication of being in love. (3) I like to see a jolly girl, as long as she doesn't go beyond good taste. (4) No—there's no harm in that, my dear. (5) It is permissible. (6) They had a right to kiss if they were engaged and he is a cad for speaking of it to others. (7) Bathe them often with alcohol or witch hazel. Use witch hazel for the face. (8) It will make the skin yellow. (9) But chock-a-balls and dry in the open air, if possible, see that your teeth and stomach are in good condition. (10) They are very unpleasant people to know. (11) It is fairly good. (12) The law says a girl is old enough to marry.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What will make me a little fleshier in the face? I am fleshy enough but my face is so thin that it makes me look older than I am. Is there anything that I could massage it with without ruining my skin?

Massage your face gently with any good skin food. It is the massage which really helps. Before massaging, bathe the face in quite warm water, then dash with cold water. Practice pulling out the cheeks frequently if you have had any of your teeth pulled, have the spaces filled by the dentist.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a thirteen year old girl. I weigh 137 pounds. I am five feet tall. Am I too fat? (2) So, how can I reduce my fat? I am not very healthy. (3) Should I wear a lady's corset? (4) Is there anything that will make my hair curly? (5) Is my writing bad?

(1) You are too heavy. If you are not very healthy I think it would be best for you to follow a good doctor's advice. (2) You should not wear any corset at your age. A corset waist will be better. (3) There is nothing that will make the whole hair curly if it is naturally straight. Rub a little vasoline into the hair at night and wash the hair thoroughly next day; then brush it dry in the open air, if possible, it will then be quite curly. (4) No.

The Daily Novlette. ALICE'S ALLY, BY THE GAME. "Theater rises, the savant drips. The cup upsets as he hears his lips. A groan fills the auditorium, and then the egg is gone, but where's the hen?"

"Father, father," cried little Oswald excitedly. "They're lynching a man at our back gate."

"I won't have it," shouted Mr. Skiggbury. "I wouldn't have a dog lynched at my back gate, much less a man. Are we living in a civilized age, or are we not?"

"Why don't you stop them, father?" cried little Oswald, who at heart was a tender youth.

"I will come to think of it," said his father, and rushed with both feet toward the back gate.

"I do hope you'll be in time, father," panted little Oswald, as he ran after him. "It's an umpire that they're lynching."

Mr. Skiggbury stopped so suddenly the dining-room windows nearly fell out of their sockets.

"Darn," he said. "Getting me all heated up for nothing!"

And he returned to the perusal of his evening paper.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY You will have prosperity and good fortune, but will be annoyed by ignorant or thoughtless people. It will help you to remember that the sudden attainment of wealth rarely improves the personality at first. Those born today will have affectionate dispositions and many friends.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams BY WALT MASON

Once I met a gloomy mortal and I said to him, said I: "You should carole and chortle—better far to smile than sigh. All our woes and pains will leave us, and the sun for us will shine; nothing is so doggone grievous as to call for all this brine. For your moping there's no pardon. It's against a 111 record. For your TEARS' styles. Read the dope of O. S. Marden, note the curves of Sammy Smiles! Why go snoring round to borrow trouble when there's joy to spare? If there's gloom today, tomorrow will dispense your grief and care." But the old man went the louder as he heard my gems of thought, saying: "You are full of chowder—all the things you say are flat. For my trade is helpful verses and the plait graft my son, and I feel like forty hearses with a corpse in every one. Life has lost its charms and glories, it has nothing but distress for I write the sunshine stories for the optimistic press."

Made His Speech Too Long. Little Herbert, aged five, was invited to a party. Before leaving home he was cautioned to be sure to say "Thank you" to the hostess and tell her he had a nice time. On leaving he said to the hostess: "Thank you very much. I had a nice time, and your supper was good enough."

WOMAN COULD NOT WALK

She Was So Ill—Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Pentwater, Mich.—"A year ago I was very weak and the doctor said I had a serious displacement. I had backache and bearing down pains so bad that I could not sit in a chair or walk across the floor and I was in severe pain all the time. I felt discouraged as I had taken everything I could think of and was no better. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am strong and healthy."—Mrs. ALICE DARLING, R. F. D. No. 2, Box 77, Pentwater, Mich.

Read What Another Woman says: "Feeling ill. I had such backaches that I could hardly stand on my feet. I would feel like crying out lots of times, and had such a heavy feeling in my right side. "After I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a week I began to improve. My backache was less and that heavy feeling in my side went away. I continued to take the Compound and am cured."

"You may publish this if you wish."—Miss CLARA L. GAUWITZ, R. R. No. 4, Box 62, Peoria, Ill.

The Daughter of David Kerr

By Harry King Tootle
Illustrations by Ray Walters

(Copyright, 1912, by A. C. McElroy & Co.)

"I know I'm going to like Belmont very much," she ventured at last. "And I want Belmont to like me. My coming home is different from that of other girls I know. At Annabel's or Jane Leigh's or any of the girls' homes we haven't been in the house ten minutes before the telephone begins to ring. In half an hour there are enough engagements to last a week. In Belmont I don't know any one yet."

This was not said in any tone of complaint. She could not dream of such a thing, because her father's position was such that her lack of friends was only a temporary embarrassment. She knew that well enough. As for David Kerr, he made no comment, desirous of hearing her at greater length.

"If I had known that I was coming home I would have brought some of the girls with me." She did not allow him to know that the house had not come up to her expectations. "I'm glad I didn't because I don't know any one here yet, and although we'd all be received at once I couldn't make it as pleasant for them as I can after I have had an intimate knowledge of things. After you once introduce me I think I can begin to plan for the girls. I'm under obligations to every single girl I know. I don't mean single—unmarried. But I might as well, because married girls don't go visiting around the country."

"I thought you entertained in the east."

"I did, but girls like to get to a new place. They're not looking for anybody, but the wider your territory the more certain it is that lightning will strike you."

"You've had a pretty wide territory," was her father's dry rejoinder. "But I always ran for cover when I saw a storm coming."

"I thought you'd come home engaged to a duke or a count, at the least. Didn't you see any men you liked?"

"I liked them all, father, but I haven't seen a foreigner I'd marry. They're nice enough to talk to and dance with and to bring an ice at a ball, but no more than that. But nothing worries me; I'm going to stay here and keep house for you."

"It ain't much of a house, Gloria. You see, I ain't ever had any women folk around here, and the place 'bout runs itself, 'cept what the niggers do. You won't like it, I'm afraid."

"I'll like it well enough. You don't know how I've envied other girls their homes."

"I tell you what you do. Go on to California now—I'll go with you, if you say so, and stay till you get settled with some of your friends. Then I'll come back and have the house fixed up so's when you come again it'll be just what you want."

Kerr felt that if he could get her away he could see to it that she did not return, even at the cost of his leaving Belmont a year or two sooner than he had planned. To this suggestion Gloria did not accede. There was her curiosity about Belmont and her desire, something one who felt there was no depth to her nature could not understand, for a home.

her father was afraid to interpose any objection at the time.

The arrival of Gloria's trunk put an end to further conversation, as she went to superintend their unpacking. Long after she had gone, David Kerr sat gazing into the fire. Many a time he had sat in that room and planned each move of a political campaign from its inception to final victory and had seen those plans carried out to the letter. But here was a campaign. If he should undertake it, which would be different. He would not be fighting on his own ground where he was sure of himself; and into it would enter those unknown, unstable factors—women.

Kerr was proud of his daughter. He recognized that she deserved to associate with the best families. If she was to remain in Belmont he would see to it that she had a social position which would be above cavil. This much decided, there came the question of how it could be brought to pass. The fire had burned low in the grate before he had considered all sides of the question. When he rose from his chair and went to the telephone he had determined upon the only course which would have as its result the launching of Gloria as a debutante in Belmont's exclusive circles.

Great was the surprise in the box office of the Belmont opera house when there came from David Kerr a request for a box. He telephoned to set it aside for him, that he did not know whether or not he would use it, but that he would send a check for the amount in the morning. The much flustered treasurer stammered that he would be most happy to put the box at Mr. Kerr's disposal and have him as a guest of the theater, but Mr. Kerr inquired the price of the box and closed the conversation by repeating that he would send a check for the amount in the morning.

And great was the surprise of the servants when at dinner, the master of Locust Lawn appeared in evening clothes.

CHAPTER II.

The English surpass Americans in at least one respect; they have learned as a nation far better than has this newer country the possibilities of a dinner party. Perhaps it is their higher developed social system, more likely it is the general interest which is taken in governmental questions, which gives the dinner table an importance, if unofficial, place in political life. A brilliant hostess, with heart and soul wrapped up in her husband's advancement, can do much to aid him as he toils up the ladder of political preferment by gathering at her board the leaders of her husband's party and also prominent men of the opposition. One need have only a superficial knowledge of American politics and American leaders to understand why this is not generally possible here. But there be some here, taking a leaf from England's book, who make the dinner party serve purposes not apparent to all the guests. Judge Amos Gilbert was one of these.

Fond, ambitious mothers held up to their sons as an example the rise of Amos Gilbert from an humble home in a frontier village to a position as the leading corporation lawyer of Belmont. He represented the electric light company, the street railway company, the water company and the stockyards company. A person with an analytical turn of mind, might remark that each and every one, individual, partnership or corporation, could be favored by some political turn or damaged by some political machination. They found it better to employ Judge Gilbert than to trust to luck that all would go well.

All day Judge Gilbert had been trying to get in touch with David Kerr by telephone. Kendall, who represented the Chicago packers, had been called back to that city and was anxious to see Kerr before he left, that night. Failing in this, Gilbert could make no definite promise as to Mr. Kerr's attitude on certain propositions set forth by the astute Chicago lawyer. On his own authority he did say, however, that the master of Locust Lawn was interested in watching the Belmont News develop its new policy under the new owner and editor who had managed to secure control of the sheet without Kerr's knowledge. That Kendall might see for himself and meet on friendly ground the new and disturbing factor in Belmont politics, Judge Gilbert invited Joe Wright, the new owner of the paper, to dinner. It was just by accident, apparently, that Mr. Kendall had been picked up at almost the last minute.

"We're Going to the Theater Tonight."

The only others present were Dr. and Mrs. Hayes. Sam Hayes, a rising young physician and surgeon, was a cornerer of Belmont county, an office which his society friends joked him about, but one which Hayes recognized and accepted as a political stepping stone. Then, too, it gave him opportunities to repay his political friends. David Kerr liked to have such young men hold office.

It's False Economy To Save a Quarter and Lose Several Weeks' Room Rent

Did you ever stop to think that the desirable tenants, the steady workers, the "Pay in advance" kind, have no time to run the town over looking for a room. The roomer you would like to have probably works every day, has no time nor inclination to hunt for window placards or notices. If you depend upon that class of advertising you will probably never get the tenant you wish.

How To Find a Roomer

For housewives who have desirable rooms to let, the Gazette Classified page has a special Classification "Rooms to Let." This column goes to nine out of every ten homes in the city. 14,000 people are reached by the page in this city each day. Surely out of this number of people you will find a tenant.

Stop That Cough in A Minute

Would you give morphine or chloroform to your baby or take it yourself? Of course not. Yet most patent cough cures contain one or both. They stop a cough in a minute, which is dangerous. A cough should be cured internally by healing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, throwing it out, which is done by coughing. Badger Cough Balm does not contain morphine or chloroform. It is made by percolation from bloodroot, lobelia, pine bark, wild cherry, etc. It cures a cough in a few days without filling the lungs with poisonous phlegm. The irritation is relieved, the lungs healed without danger of pneumonia. It's safe for children or old people. Get a bottle today for 25 cents. Badger Cough Balm is made by Mr. F. H. Fennig, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist. Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee, and River Sts.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, May 15, 1873.—Common Council: The council last night took a decided position against the liquor business holding firmly to the opinion of the license committee in regard to the bestowal of licenses for the coming year. The course of the liquor dealers has been closely watched during the past year and it is generally understood that their conduct under the state laws and city ordinances has governed the action of the license committee in their report this year. Last year twenty-six licenses were given. From applications were received last night and it is probable that five more will be similarly decided upon. If the licenses can be cut down at the rate of seven a year Janesville will be able to get rid of this kind of traffic in an astounding short space of time. We do not look for any such sudden result of the cutting down of the number of saloons but it is conceded that the smaller the number of liquor dealing houses in this city the better the city will be. The vote of the rejection of the licenses last night was so close that it required the voice of the mayor to decide the question in favor of rejection. This was somewhat unexpected, as it was generally understood that Aldermen Stark and Hanson would go as far as the mayor in restricting the sale of intoxicating liquors. The one majority carried the question, however, and the other eleven applicants will be restricted from selling liquor during the coming year.

Our excellent bachelor friend, T. L. Hopkin, was last night one of the parties to an affair of the most important to himself and the sharer of his future joys and sorrows. In order that there may exist a fair understanding of our meaning we refer our readers to the department devoted to marriage notices. Miss Rebecca S. Whitteley, one of Janesville's favorite fair ones, stood beside the fortunate Hopkin last night, while Rev. George Wallace pronounced the beautiful and impressive ceremony, joining for life two trusting hearts and giving us the opportunity to offer our most hearty congratulations and sincere hopes for a happy future.

LEANING ON FATHER'S ARM
Oh, pretty soon the sweet June bride
Will walk with slow and measured stride
Down the aisle.
And she will see, with downcast eyes,
Her girl friends grin and criticize
Her shape and style.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Persons Answering Fraudulent Advertisements Asked to Notify Gazette.

The Gazette is desirous of keeping out of its columns fraudulent advertising and asks the assistance of its patrons to that end.

There are any number of concerns in the country who make a living through a nicely worded advertisement offering golden opportunities and these unscrupulous people find fertile ground for work among the masses.

Many orders are received in the Gazette mail for advertising which are returned as objectionable and where there is a question as to the qualifications the advertisement is omitted.

All newspapers have this experience.

But even with the utmost care there will be an occasional advertisement which will pass the scrutiny of the business department of the paper and find its way into the columns.

The Gazette will deem it a favor if you will report to the office any trouble which may have been experienced through the answering of such an advertisement.
